

Jumeirah wins at World Travel Awards

by Chris Jackson on Tuesday, 18 September 2007

Jumeirah's property in New York was recognised at the World Travel Awards this week, where it won awards for "North America's Leading Hotel" and "North America's Leading Business Hotel".

Jumeirah Essex House, which overlooks Central Park, was one of several properties, travel organisations and airlines to be recognised at the Americas regional edition of the awards.

Others feted included Delta Air Lines - voted "North America's Leading Business Class Airline" - and Hilton Hotels Corporation, which picked up the award for "South America's Leading Hotel Brand".

Story continues below ↓

advertisement

Europcar International also received "Central America's and South America's Leading Car Hire Company".

World Travel Awards president and founder Graham Cooke said the awards had expanded to include the Americas, and were well received in New York.

"The response from award winners who attended the event has already been very positive," he said.

"We now look forward to the other regional events and the global awards in the Turks & Caicos."